Amusing Miscellany.

A BED-BUG STORY .- The editor of the Grand River Eagle gives the following as the experience of a friend stopping at the Kalamazoo House:

"You see I went to bed pretty all-fired used up after a hull day on the old road, before the plank was laid, kalkilatin on a good snooze waal just as the shivers began to ease off, kinder felt sumthing tryin to pull off my shirt and diggin their nebs into the small of my back, tryin to get a good hold. Wiggled, and twisted, and puckered. All no use-kept agoin it like all sin.

"Bimeby got up and struck a light, to look around a spell. Found about a peck of bed bugs scattered around, and more droppin off my shirt and runnin down my legs every minit. Sweapt off a place on the floor, shook out a quilt, lay down and kivered up in it for a nap.

"No use, mounted right on me like a passel of rats on a meat tub, dug a hole in the kiverlid and crawled through and give me fits for tryin to hide.

"Got up again, went down stairs and got time, anyhow. Left the light burnin and watched 'em. Seed 'em get together and have a camp-meetin about it, and then they went off in a squad, with an old gray headed one at the plump into my face. Fact, by thunder.

"Waal, I swept 'em up again and made a circle of tar on the ceiling too. Thought I gentlemen, and I will show you a liar." had 'em foul that time, but I swan to man if they didn't pull straw out of a bed and build a regular bridge over it !"

Seeing an incredulous expression on our vi- and exclaimed: sages, he clenched the story thus:

"It's so, whether you believe it or not, and some of 'em walked across on stilts!" Bed-bugs are curious critters, and no mistake, especially the Kalamazoo kind.

MARRIAGES IN THE STATE OF KENTUCKY. -Some curious information in relation to marriages in Kentucky during 1854 is given in a late number of the Louisville Courier. The eight inhabitants. The largest number was to the captainin December. Of 5,261 marriages, 4,184 were the first to both parties; 148 widows married bachelors; 598 widowers married maids; and 204 widowers married widows. In one instance the same parties had been previously married, then divorced, and remarried.
